

Pre-launch Legal Review & Opinion Engagement

Date: 15 June 2026

Prepared by: AI Advocate Ltd. (the "Client")

For the attention of: Instructed UK Solicitor / Counsel

1. About AI Advocate

AI Advocate is a consumer-facing, multilingual UK legal-information application ("a lawyer in your pocket") that combines a tiered-LLM AI legal assistant ("Lex" — Claude Haiku on Free, GPT-5.2 on Plus, Claude Sonnet on Pro), evidence analysis, encrypted document vault, deadline tracking, emergency rights flows, and a directory of UK regulated law firms. The app is sold as a subscription via Apple App Store, Google Play Store, and the web with Stripe, and offers a free tier. It is intended to launch in the United Kingdom under the domain aiadvocate.co.uk.

Since the previous draft of this brief (May 2025) the product has expanded in five ways that materially affect the UPL analysis below and should be specifically endorsed in your opinion:

- Universal Document Upload (■) — users may attach photographs, PDFs, or Word documents (5 pages/day Free, 25/day Plus, 100/day Pro) to a Lex chat. The text is extracted (OCR via Gemini Nano Banana for images, pypdf/docx2txt for text formats) and fed into the model's context window. The user retains the uploaded file in their encrypted Vault.
- Letter Reader / Counter Letter / "Send by email" flow — when a user uploads a solicitor letter, debt demand, parking ticket, eviction notice, etc., Lex returns (i) a plain-English summary, (ii) a draft response letter, (iii) a counter-letter outcome ladder. The user may then tap "Send by email", which opens their device's default mail client (mailto:) with the draft pre-filled. AI Advocate does not dispatch communications on the user's behalf, does not retain the recipient address, and does not represent the user in any capacity.
- Predict Outcome / Devil's Advocate / "What happens if I do nothing?" — three predictive features that model the user's case against UK precedents, simulate opposing counsel's arguments, and project the consequences of inaction. All outputs are framed as general legal information modelled against published precedent, never as advice or representation, and every output carries the standard footer disclaimer.
- £49 Solicitor Sanity Check (human-in-the-loop) — the most material UPL-safeguard mechanism in the product. For £49 the user can request that an SRA-regulated UK solicitor reviews Lex's drafted response or case analysis within 24 hours. The reviewing solicitor (a) confirms accuracy, (b) edits where needed, (c) accepts professional accountability for the reviewed output. This is a one-off purchase (not a subscription tier) accessible from Letter Reader, Case Files, and the Lex chat interface. This mechanism converts AI Advocate from a pure AI-information product into a hybrid AI-triage / human-counsel product on demand, and we would specifically like your opinion endorsing it as a UPL-compliant escalation path.

- One-off Doc Pack top-up (£4.99) — consumable Stripe purchase granting 5 additional document analyses; does not change the underlying UPL posture but is a new payment surface.
- Charity partnership model (in design — no agreements signed) — AI Advocate intends to route signposted users from advice-sector charities via co-branded landing pages and donate 10% of net subscription revenue from referred users back to the originating charity as unrestricted income. This model is contractual (per-charity MoU) and does not change the user's relationship with AI Advocate; it would be a B2B revenue-share, not an advice-provision arrangement. We highlight this here because if any such partnerships go live during the period of your engagement, we may want a short supplementary note in your opinion confirming the model is UPL-compliant.

We are pre-launch (web live; iOS/Android Capacitor builds in submission) and are instructing you to perform a formal legal review of our consumer-facing documents and confirm regulatory compliance. Time-sensitive: targeted App Store / Play Store submission within 4–6 weeks.

2. Documents enclosed for your review

#	Document	Path / URL
1	Terms of Service (v1.3)	https://aiadvocate.co.uk/terms.html
2	Privacy Policy	https://aiadvocate.co.uk/privacy.html
3	Data Protection Impact Assessment (DPIA)	/app/memory/DPIA.md (attached as PDF)
4	Cookie Consent & PECR notice	In-app banner + privacy.html §Cookies
5	In-app UPL acknowledgement flow	Screenshots attached (Lex first-use modal)

3. Scope of work — what we need from you

We are instructing you to provide:

(a) Legal Opinion Letter on the Terms of Service and Privacy Policy

A signed written opinion confirming that the attached Terms of Service and Privacy Policy are fit for purpose under the laws of England and Wales, including but not limited to:

- Consumer Rights Act 2015 (clarity, fairness of terms, no unfair contract terms under §62);
- Consumer Contracts (Information, Cancellation and Additional Charges) Regulations 2013 (14-day cooling-off period for distance contracts, currently reflected in §6);
- UK GDPR & Data Protection Act 2018 (lawful bases, transparency, data subject rights, international transfer mechanisms);
- Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations 2003 (PECR) — cookies, analytics, marketing communications;
- Electronic Commerce (EC Directive) Regulations 2002 — information society service requirements.

(b) UPL & Legal Services Act 2007 Compliance Confirmation

A formal written confirmation that AI Advocate's positioning — as an information service rather than a regulated legal advice service — is sufficient to avoid being a "reserved legal activity" under section 12 of the Legal Services Act 2007. We rely on the following safeguards, which we ask you to specifically endorse or amend:

- Persistent "AI-generated legal information, not legal advice" footer on every Lex chat surface;
- First-use UPL acknowledgement modal that the user must dismiss before using Lex (per-device);
- Explicit statement in Terms §1 and §3 that AI Advocate is not a solicitor and does not establish a solicitor-client relationship;
- In-app referral to a directory of SRA-regulated UK solicitors when the user's matter warrants regulated advice;
- £49 Solicitor Sanity Check escalation — on-demand human-in-the-loop review by an SRA-regulated UK solicitor for any Lex-drafted response. The reviewing solicitor accepts professional accountability for the reviewed output. We consider this the strongest single UPL safeguard in the product.
- Emergency SOS flow that explicitly states the app is not a replacement for 999/112/911 services;
- Document analysis & drafted replies are framed as user-authored: the "Send by email" button opens the user's own mail client with the draft pre-filled, requiring the user to add the recipient address and press Send. AI Advocate never dispatches, receives, or relays correspondence on the user's behalf, and has no agency or apparent authority to represent the user.

(c) DPIA sign-off (UK GDPR Article 35)

Review of the enclosed Data Protection Impact Assessment and signature of Section 8 — Sign-off. We expect minor revisions; the document already covers lawful bases, special-category data, retention, international transfers, residual risks and mitigations. We are happy to action your comments and re-circulate.

(d) Recommended amendments (optional)

Any drafting amendments you feel are necessary to the Terms, Privacy Policy, or DPIA. Please supply mark-up (PDF or Word redline) and we will incorporate before submission to Apple App Store and Google Play Console.
